Every day more and more customers are shopping online—giving companies unlimited opportunities to sell to consumers all around the world, and allowing brick and mortar stores to expand their reach and revenue. As the Internet continues to grow, change, and converge, the fact remains that half of all American households have never completed an online transaction. And fraud poses a significant threat to e-Commerce. Tiger has solutions that allow companies to do business online reliably and securely—no matter where your business is in the world, or in the virtual world.
